President's Message

Presidential Pole

BY NEIL KINKOPF • PRESIDENT@INMANPARK.ORG

April in Paris? Autumn in New York? November in Poland. Yes, Dear Reader, I just returned from two weeks in Warsaw. I confess I get turned off by my jet-set lifestyle. I keep expecting to run into a Kardashian or a Hilton, but I haven't seen even one of the lesser siblings whose names you have to Google (that'd be Kourtney and Nicky). Heck, I haven't even seen Snooki. I guess that tells you just how far ahead of the trends I am. And after two weeks in Poland, I am nothing if not trendy. I am now hip to all the latest dance moves, which I plan to bust out at the neighborhood Holiday Party. I guess this will make me the Holiday Party's first ever Pole dancer. I also learned an essential Polish survival skill -- how to gird myself against the cold. This should come in handy on New Year's Day at the Pole(r) Bear Plunge.

While I have been away, the neighborhood has been busy. A bevy of volunteers has been hard at work on the aforementioned Holiday Party. I hope you will be able to stop in to the Trolley Barn on December 8. In addition to the great food and holiday cheer, there will be a live band to heat up the dance floor (even if you don't know all the latest Polish waltzes that drive the kids crazy).

We also elected Amir Farokhi as the new Atlanta city council member for district 2 to succeed Kwanza Hall. During the campaign, Amir showed himself to be hands-on and deeply interested in the issues facing our neighborhood. I look forward to working with him. But we still have unfinished business on the political scene. We still have the run-off elections, featuring the races for Mayor and City Council President. These offices are crucial for our neighborhood, so please make an effort to get out and vote on December 5.

Inman Park Pool (Edgewood Avenue & Delta Place)

The Inman Park Pool Association invites the neighborhood to the annual Polar Bear Jump on January 1, 2018. It's been a New Year's tradition since Y2K. This year could be the last ... you never know when that computer glitch will catch up to us.

All are welcome even if you are not a member of the pool. Few will take the plunge. For those who do, we have liquid courage and other treats. See you at the pool on January 1 at 10:00 a.m.

Progress has been made on the two major developments proposed for our neighborhood: Villa de Grip and Jenkins Metal. The developers of Villa de Grip have been meeting with the neighborhood working group, and we anticipate that a meeting for input from the full neighborhood will be held in the next few weeks. Thrive Homes, the developers of the Jenkins Metal site, held a meeting to receive input on the plans. I understand attendance strained the meeting hall's capacity. I am greatly encouraged that so many of you appreciate the importance of this project. I am sure you all made a real impression on the developer. IPNA will use the website InmanPark.org, social media platforms, Yahoo!, and Nextdoor to keep you informed of upcoming meetings and new information. Stay tuned.

Poland does not celebrate Thanksgiving. Maybe all that girding against the cold does not inspire a mood of thankfulness. In any event, my time away reminded me of how thankful I am to share this remarkable neighborhood with all of you dear, dear readers. M

Tour of Homes – ‘70 Style

BY SUSANNA CAPELOUTO • INMAN PARK NEIGHBOR • SCAPELOUTO@GMAIL.COM

The do-it-yourself urban pioneers of Inman Park had little choice but to be on the Tour of Homes. In the early days, regardless of the state of their renovation, “everyone was on tour in 1974,” said Inman Park neighbor Eileen Brown, who chaired the festival committee at the time. “Nobody got a pass,” she said.

In the early 70s, Inman Park was a gateway neighborhood for people from outside of Atlanta who wanted to make it in the city. Splattered among the boarding houses and apartments were a few determined homeowners willing to restore Inman Park to its old glory one home at a time. Brown says the owner occupancy rate in Inman Park was just around 14 percent in the early ‘70s.

To attract more people, the Tour of Homes and Festival were started to “show off” the place.

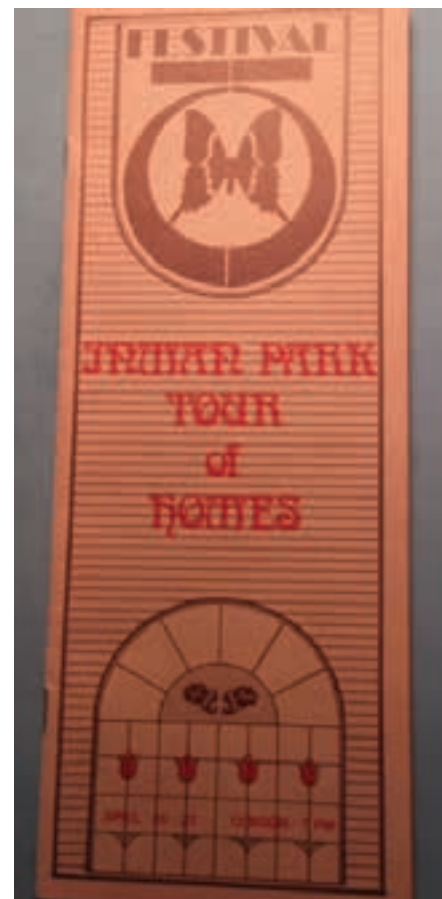

“We wanted more owner occupancy and more publicity for the neighborhood,” said Brown.

That meant homeowners opened their doors for the tour every year, regardless of whether their renovations were finished. Many times visitors would stop by and check in on the annual progress.

Brown remembers. “They’d come and say, ‘oh, you finished your dining room since last year,’” she said. The 1974 home tour book lists 28 properties for people to visit. It cost just $2 dollars to see them. Brown said one of the biggest accomplishment of the 1974 Tour was the new design of the brochure that endures today. For the first few years “We had this crazy fold out paper that listed all the homes,” she said. She credits festival committee member Don Jordan with the change in style to a booklet that fits well into your hands, your back pockets or a number 12 envelope to be mailed out. Back then they only could afford to print the brochure in three colors so, instead of photos, the booklet is speckled with wonderful and whimsical drawings.

In 1974 Brown remembers 7,000 people attending the Tour of Homes. Today, that number is a bit higher and so is the admission price.

To become part of the Tour of Homes legacy in Inman Park, consider opening up your house next year or volunteer as a house sitter to greet visitors to our neighborhood. M

Festival 2018 Planning is Already Underway!

By PAT WESTRICK • FESTIVAL 2018 COMMITTEE MEMBER • PATWESTRICK@GMAIL.COM

While all the rest of us are thinking about the upcoming holidays, neighbors who are involved in planning for the 2018 Inman Park Festival are up to their eyeballs in all the details that go into making our Festival the best in the city. Next year's Festival is the weekend of April 27, 28 and 29, and promises to be – as always – one of the best perks of living in Inman Park!

Festival meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. on the second Monday of the month at the home of the Festival Chairs, Cooper Pierce and Robbie Whyte-Pierce, 1009 Euclid Avenue. If you'd like to get involved in the planning process, feel free to come on by and see where your help might come in handy.

It takes a village (or in our case, a neighborhood) to pull off a weekend of food, beer, entertainment, house tours, art shopping, a wacky parade, and amazing people watching. Almost 1,000 of your neighbors volunteer for a couple of hours or more during the weekend to make sure it all goes smoothly. Don't be left out! Volunteering is a great way to meet your neighbors whether you've lived here for 40 days or 40 years. Watch for the announcement of volunteer opportunities in the Advocator each month.

Once again, the Tour Committee has put together a group of homes which either haven't been on tour in years or have never been on tour. Watch this spot for more details of what you can expect when these neighbors invite us in to see their homes! M

Exciting New Initiatives are Empowering Inman Middle School Students

BY INMAN MIDDLE SCHOOL FOUNDATION • WWW.INMANFOUNDATION.ORG

At Inman Middle School, every Eagle deserves the opportunity to take flight and soar. The Inman Middle School Foundation focuses on supporting the Systems & Resources and Talent Management elements of Inman's Strategic Plan in furtherance of its mission to provide a stable, long-term funding source for the people, programs and technology that will help to make Inman the best middle school—public or private—in Georgia. By investing in instructional technology and teacher training, the Foundation is significantly enhancing the educational experience for students across all grade levels.

which supplies skilled and experienced outdoor educators who work one-on-one or in small groups to provide intensive instruction for Inman students requiring extra attention. The program effectively reduces class sizes and allows Inman teachers to continue teaching all students at an appropriate pace. The Foundation is committed to continuing and expanding this program but we need our community's financial support in order to do so. Please visit www.educationaladvisoryfoundation.org to learn more about EAF.

1:1 Initiative

The Foundation is focused on creating an innovative and engaging learning environment by funding the latest in instructional equipment and technology for Inman teachers. The centerpiece of this effort is the Foundation's transformative "1:1 Initiative" to provide every Inman student with a dedicated, state-of-the-art Chromebook laptop in the classroom. This initiative will:

- Revolutionize the Inman educational experience and enable teachers across all grade levels to interact with their students in new and engaging ways while delivering real-time, differentiated instruction based on individual student needs and abilities.
- Provide Inman educators with a world of new curriculum possibilities through the integration of cutting-edge instructional platforms such as Google Classroom.
- Significantly reduce the need for expensive (and heavy!) textbooks.

To date, the Foundation has purchased more than 180 Chromebooks but we still have a long way to go. Achieving our goal of providing every student Inman with a dedicated Chromebook will require significant financial support from our Inman community. Importantly, every dollar raised has an immediate impact by enabling the purchase and deployment of Chromebooks in classrooms on a continual basis as we move toward our ultimate goal of a dedicated device for every student.

Educational Advisory Foundation

A second critical Foundation initiative is the partnership we have formed with the Educational Advisory Foundation (EAF),

A word from Inman's Principal, Dr. Kevin Maxwell

"Continuing to build on Inman's tradition of excellence and taking the school to even greater heights is only possible with your continued support of the Inman Foundation. Your donations provide critical funding that enables our students to have optimal educational experiences and reach their fullest potential. Our highly skilled teachers stay current on research and Foundation funding permits them to keep their skills up-to-date and to acquire the latest in instructional technology, which is often not covered by APS. In addition, Foundation funding allows Inman's APS budget to focus on crucial staffing needs. This ensures that our students are involved in integrated learning activities that support both academic and emotional security and growth."

How can you help achieve these objectives?

Every donation counts, no matter the amount. Anyone can donate – friends, families of future Eagles, relatives, alumni, and businesses. Your donation is tax-deductible so donate before December 31st to take advantage of 2017 tax benefits (you will receive a receipt). Visit our website today – www.inmanfoundation.org – to learn more and support Inman Middle School.

Your gifts will ensure that our Inman Eagles take flight and soar! Thank you in advance.

Inman Park Reflection

BY LORI FEIG-SANDOVAL • LONG-TIME INMAN PARK NEIGHBORS

Days before Thanksgiving, Danny and I are reflecting on our move to Colorado and the “Tribute” our neighbors gave us; words hardly describe our emotions, but “gratitude” is a great start. What a lovely way to mark our years of engaging with our neighbors in ways that called to our interests. Many before us inspired such activism, and helped transform the ‘hood from “transitional” to —like it or not— “trendy,” yet still communal. Thank you all— our hosts, the band, the many who came to the Trolley Barn and/or sent good wishes. Wow! How grateful we are for a terrific community!

Inman Park’s small-town feel results from the fact that folks thought to join forces, whether cooperating on clean-ups; establishing a credit union, the IPNA, and many committees to process neighborhood issues, host parties, publish The Advocate (key for unity), and run Festival; founding the Cooperative Preschool; preserving our neighborhood’s integrity by stopping the Expressway and creating Freedom Park; starting Tree Watch; creating Friends of Inman Park for donations; sponsoring nearby Habitat for Humanity remodeling projects; initiating our Recycle pick-up before the City did; creating groups for gourmet (or not) dinners, potlucks, book discussions, and email; all these things foster community.

The Tribute, then, is to the folks who keep these entities vibrant. In Inman Park, when one person has an idea for a project, Inman Park has effective conduits of communication, established processes, and willing participants who help make ideas realities. We are unique that way. So, we thank our neighbors for the wonderful years that Danny and I, and for awhile, our two foster sons, and then Cory, have had. What a great run!

Some were surprised that we sold our well-loved home, place of Cory’s first 18 years of education, “Alta Academy.” Though I long tolerated the south’s sub-tropical climate and had given up hope for more outdoor activities year-round, we had an epiphany after experiencing life in CO. Upon Cory’s leaving the nest, Danny and I began imagining downsizing; that way a younger family could appreciate anew our house and the ‘hood, and contribute to the community that is Inman Park. We know that Alta’s new homeowners Kate and Elliott Wood will do that, as have Mary and Ramin Saghafi, who recently bought the house we built on DeGress.

We’re certain, too, that Fort Collins is a great city for Danny and me, for a myriad of reasons— including its award-winning, progressive government, its low-traffic layout and size, and its pretty, well-preserved, pedestrian-oriented Old Town where we do errands and socializing on foot or bike. We are outdoors year-round in Fort Collins, nicknamed “The Choice City” for more reasons than its designation as a Platinum Bicycle Friendly Community by the League of American Bicyclists, and its mild, “300 days of sunshine” climate. It’s the perfect place to re-wire and re-fire. Life’s only constant is change, right?

We will, however, give Inman Park our first born! Cory begins his first mechanical engineering job in January at TUG Technologies in Kennesaw, and will commute from 884 Lake Avenue. (Carpool, anyone?)

Thanks, everyone, for the memories! We’ll be back in April as Festival volunteers, so, ciao for now, and see you then. M

Atlanta's chronic homeless population has dropped 61% since 2013, however there remains over 3,500 men, women and children in need of permanent shelter (with 700 of those still on the street) according to Partners for HOMES. Come be part of the discussion and learn how the City of Atlanta and the United Way funding of 50 million dollars is an opportunity to end chronic homelessness and make the state of being homeless rare and brief.

Good to Know

Inman Park Neighborhood Association (IPNA) membership:

Available to those who live within, own property within or operate a business within the boundaries of Inman Park. Membership is free with online registration at inmanpark.org. Membership allows you to vote (see bylaws online for details), gives you access to the directory and makes you eligible for special neighborhood events. In addition to being a member of IPNA, you may register for the Inman Park Security Patrol (IPSP) which staffs off-duty Atlanta Police officers to patrol our neighborhood. There are four levels of commitment starting at $50 per year.

IPNA meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. on the 3rd Wednesday of each month at the Trolley Barn.

IPSP membership is based upon a rolling annual membership term. Your renewal date is one year from your membership date and again every year after that.
